In Year 7 and Year 8 you go for lunch 10 minutes earlier than the rest of the school.

When you start at Malmesbury School, you'll be given a copy of your timetable. This tells you what lessons you have, where and with whom.

We have a two-week timetable, although if you look closely at the timetable on the previous page, you'll see that the two weeks are quite similar: there are normally only a few differences between Week 1 and Week 2. It's important that you check your planner carefully to make sure you know what lessons you've got each day.

The other thing that can vary is break-time. Some subjects, like Science, Design Technology and PE, need longer lessons to give you the time to complete more hands-on tasks. However, other subjects are better suited to shorter lesson times. So, some days you will have three-hour long lessons in the morning and some days you will have two 1.5-hour lessons. You can see how this works in the box on the left.

Can you answer these questions about the example timetable?

1. How often does Emma have Maths a fortnight?
2. What lesson does Emma have after lunch on Thursdays?
3. What days does Emma have late break?
4. What is the name of Emma's English teacher?
5. Where does Emma have to go for her Art lesson?
